Hi! I'm Brianne, and I live in a small town in Minnesota. It's a state in the north of the US. It gets very cold and snowy here in the winter. Before the snow comes, it is very dark and cloudy. When it's snowing heavily in the winter, it's difficult to go to the store to buy food, so we buy everything before the winter starts, in September or October. In the winter, it's always chilly outside, so we store food outside: it's a natural refrigerator! After it becomes warmer in the spring and summer, we can go out and swim or go fishing in the lake. It's so beautiful.

Hello, my name is Anil. I'm an engineer, and because of my work, I'm living in the Gobi Desert. It's a desert, so of course, it's usually very dry. But in the south, it rains a little in June or July. After it rains, small green plants start to grow everywhere.

Before we go outside, we have to wear the right clothes—we wear sunglasses and a hat to protect us from the hot sun. Sometimes it gets very windy, so the sand flies everywhere. Before this happens, we go inside and close all the windows. It's terrible!

NOTE

Before is the opposite of after.
Ex. I eat breakfast before lunch.
I eat lunch after breakfast.
