Present Perfect Simple Tense vs. Past Perfect Simple Tense Present perfect is used to talk about an action that started in the past and continues into the present. I have lived in Ontario, Canada, for seven months. Use past perfect tense to describe an action that was completed before another action or time in the past. He had been too nervous to say anything.
Infinitive	Present Perfect	Past Perfect go	have (not) gone	had (not) gone do	have (not) done	had (not) done get	have (not) gotten	had (not) gotten make	have (not) made	had (not) made be	have (not) been	had (not) been eat	have (not) eaten	had (not) eaten live	have (not) lived	had (not) lived
